

Ignite FAQ

Where should Kenton County Scholars apply for the Ignite Institute?

Since the Academy/Ignite Institute merger is not yet final, ALL KENTON COUNTY SCHOLARS should apply through our website.

What is the deadline for applications?

The Kenton County Academies (potentially Ignite) will be accepting applications from November 16-December 7th.

When will I find out if I was accepted to the Ignite Institute?

Students will be notified in late December 2018.

What is the Ignite Institute?

The Ignite Institute is a regional school focused on providing career opportunities while scholars are still in high school. There, scholars will complete all their high school courses within a career pathway. Additionally, scholars will remain at the Ignite Institute all day as opposed to just a half day (like they currently do in the Academies). For more information, please see the Ignite curriculum guide on our website.

What about sports, clubs, and other activities?

Scholars will still be able to play sports, participate in clubs, attend dances, and other activities at their home schools while attending the Ignite Institute. Scholars will be dismissed from the Ignite Institute at 2:15 so they can return to their home schools in time to participate in after-school activities.

Where is the campus located?

The Ignite Institute is located at 37 Atlantic Ave., Erlanger Kentucky 41018. This location is in unincorporated Boone County, near the Mineola Pike exit on Interstate 275.

Where will I be enrolled?

Student's primary enrollment will be at their home high school, and their secondary enrollment will be with the Ignite Institute within Boone County Schools.

Will transportation be provided to and from the Ignite Institute?

Yes. Kenton County Schools will provide free transportation to the Ignite Institute from any Kenton County High School. Likewise, free transportation will be provided back to their home schools at the end of the school day.
